

Westway Trust Cookies Policy

Our website uses cookies which allow us to monitor the use of our website. This is for general purposes only and the information we gather cannot be used to identify you as an individual.

What is a cookie?

A cookie is a small text file which is generated by a website and stored in a folder on your computer. The cookie stored is unique to your computer.

Why are cookies needed?

Cookies are needed to make websites work better. For example when you add an item to your shopping cart on the Amazon website, the contents of the shopping cart are stored in the cookie. Another example would be when you log into a webmail service such as Hotmail or Gmail, a cookie is generated that confirms you are logged in. When you log off, the cookie is deleted. This means if someone goes back to your webmail address, they will not be able to read your emails.

What cookies does Westway Trust use?

We only use Google Analytics cookies on our website. These cookies record visits to the website. This helps us to identify which parts of the website are popular and which are less so. These cookies also help you with your partially-completed applications in case your web browser closes accidentally – this means that if that does happen, you will not have lost your content.

We do not use any other third party cookies.

What if I do not consent to the use of Google Analytics cookies?

By using our website you consent to the processing of data by Google Analytics. If you do not consent to the use of Google Analytics cookies, you should contact us at datacontroller@westway.org. We will provide you with advice on how to reject Google Analytics cookies via your browser. Please note however that if you do reject cookies, you may not be able to use the full functionality of this website.
